

Email service

Residential Tenancies Office

Given the ongoing need to maintain distancing, the Residential Tenancies Office may permit services of documents by email.

This means that, in most cases, if a document is served by email, that document will be considered legally served under the Residential Landlord and Tenant Act as long as the intent of the service to ensure the other side actually receives the documents.