

Yukon Archives Harmful Content Warning

You may find records through Yukon Archives databases, research guides and web pages that contain harmful or upsetting content. Please be aware that the material may reflect outdated, biased, offensive and possibly triggering views and opinions.

Certain parts of the Yukon Archives collections contain historical language and content that can be offensive, for example, language that reflects racist, sexist, ableist, and xenophobic opinions. They may also be discriminatory towards and/or exclude diverse views. Graphic content may also be found in documentation of events including deaths, medical practices and procedures, crimes, wars, colonialism, disasters and more. The collection also demonstrates biases and exclusion in institutional collection and digitization practices.

Yukon Archives strives to preserve and provide access to records; however, it is important to note that the records reflect the time periods in which they were created and the views of their creator(s). Items retain their creator's/author's descriptions to ensure that these viewpoints are not erased from the record.

Identifying harmful content and practices at Yukon Archives is an ongoing process. We welcome and value suggestions and feedback. Please contact us at yukon.archives@yukon.ca
